was called as a witness for the une. He followed his son, Edsel on the stand. Direct examination was by Elliott G. Stevenson.

Mr. Ford has been waiting since last Thursday to testify. He gave his age as fifty-six years, and in answering preliminary questions he sketched the familiar details of the formation of the Ford Motor Company sixteen years ago with a capital of $150,000.

Mr. Stevenson offered in evidence a Tribune editorial of January 14, 1914, in which the Ford plan of a $5 minimum wage, which was put in effect January 12, 1914, was commended in the standard of relations between employer and employees.

Questioned on Editorials. Questioned on Editorials.

"Anything malicious in that, Mr. Ford?" asked Mr. Stevenson. "No," replied the witness in a low states your position fully and Another editorial, "Extremes in dichigan," in 1914, was read. It conrasted the lot of northern Michigan niners who lost a nine-months' strike and returned to work, with that of order demployees, who were being well aid being helped to pay for their tomes. The course of the mine owners ed backward, the editorial declared, and that of Henry Ford forward.

"Anything malicious in that?" again sked the attorney.

A third editorial asserted that Mr.
Ford was a greater business man than a philanthropist. He referred to him as one of the great geniuses in the world. Witness admitted there was nothing malicious in it.
The last editorial was published in 1915.

"About that time you found yourself and the Tribune drifting apart?" asked the lawyer.

"Yes."
"What they called preparedness you called militarism?"
"I think so"
Mr. Stevenson referred to a story in the Detroit Free Press in 1915, stating that Mr. Ford had started a worldwide campaign for universal peace.

would devote his life to abolishing war and the preparedness which was at the bottom of all wars, was read to the jury.

The article quoted him as asserting that preparedness was a criminal waste, the burden of which falls on the workers. He would rather end his days in poverty, the article said, than make a profit out of war or preparedness. War was referred to as "an enormous crime" and as "murder." He would not build peace palaces, the story continued, but would educate children that this country is not threatened, and against preparedness which, he was quoted as asserting, never prevented a war, but instead, invoked it. "What did you do to combat war?" asked Stevenson. "Hire Mr. Delavinge to write for you?"

"That was the beginning, yes."

PLAN SUGGESTED FOR CABLE FROM AMERICA TO SWEDEN

British Monopoly and Control of Com-munication Creates Adverse Criticism.

STOCKHOLM, July 14.—Strong financial interests in the United States have under consideration with authorities of the Swedish government a plant to lay a cable from America to Sweden, making the landing at Gothenburg, says the Dagens Myheter.

British monopoly and control of cable connection between Sweden and the United States and the exercise of British censorship in the war has caused some adverse criticism here. The American minister. Ira Neison Morris, now in the United States, is said to be energetically supporting the plan under consideration, and it is understood here that one of the purposes of his visit to America was in connection with the proposed new cable service.

LAST HOME-COMING TROOPS TO START ABOUT AUGUST 20

Demobilization of American Forces Schedule for End by Early September.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The last contingent of American troops intended for early convoy home, exclusive of the men in the army of occupation and the service of supply will be aboard ships betwen August 15 and 20, according to a statement today by Major-General David C. Shanks, in charge of the port of embarkation at Hoboken. General Shanks, in explaining recent complaints of some officers about the accommodations afforded them on their return from France, said the government had been forced to utilize fifty-eight cargo vessels as transports in order to expedite the movement to homeward bound troops. If only passenger liners were employed, he said, the 32,000 American officers. Red Cross nurses, Y. M. C. A. and Salvation Army workers still abroad could not all be transported before October or November.

[By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, July 14—A final decree dismissing all damage suits against the Cunard Steamship Company as the result of the torpedoing of the Lusitania and barring any similar suits which might be brought in future, was signed today in the United States District Court by Judge Julius M. Mayer. A total of sixty-four claims, totaling between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000, had been brought against the company.

In his decree Judge Mayer intimated that the claimants might be reimbursed for their pecuniary losses through indemnities collected by the United States from the German government. The decree, which was based upon the original opinion written by him August 26, 1915, read in part:

"The sinking of the steamship Lusitania on May 7, 1915, and the consequent loss of life and property were caused solely by the Illegal act of the imperial German government, acting through its instrument, the submarine commander, and the petitioner is not liable to any extent for any loss, damage or injury, nor for any claim whatsoever in any way arising out of or in consequence of the unlawful attack by a German submarine or submarines upon the gaid steamship."

CANADIANS IN WASHINGTON TO HEAR DEBATE ON TREATY

Sentiment in Dominion Does Not Favor Fighting Except Where Empire Is Involved.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Canadian correspondents and publicists have come to Washington to attend the Senate debates on the peace treaty. Canada is said to be keenly interested in the decision which will be made in Washington. The viewpoint of Canada, it is said, will be greatly influenced by the action taken here.

Up to the present there has not been a great deal of detailed discussion in Canada over the treaty and the covenant. This is practically Canada's first participation in international polities, consequently the people of Canada generally are not sufficiently well informed on international issues to engage generally in controversy. The general disposition in Canada, is to hold off from any definite conclusions.
